

Jack Burkom
Senior Vice President, Commercial Development

Jack Burkom is Senior Vice President, Commercial Development under Brookfield Renewable's Energy Marketing and Risk platform. In this role, Jack is responsible for the team that leads the origination and negotiation of long term contracts for the company's renewable power fleet. He leads the front office team tasked with optimizing the revenues from Brookfield Renewable's fleet of electric generating stations across North America.

Jack has eighteen years of diversified experience in the North American electricity market, including asset valuation, acquisitions, power purchasing agreement negotiation, corporate strategy, power trading, power marketing and structured transactions.

Jack holds an undergraduate degree in Arts and a Masters in Business Administration from Queens University.